G. COOK CHARGED OF MURDER

A sensational turn to the Wainwright murder case occurred Monday, when G. Cook, a well known resident of that town, was arrested charged with killing W. B. Crawford, another prominent resident. Cook was arrested by Detective Nicholson, of the provincial police department, and an officer of the mounted police. He was brought to the city at night and came up for hearing Tuesday afternoon, but the case was immediately adjourned to a later date.

Early in May last Crawford, who was a prominent business man of Wainwright, mysteriously disappeared, and for some weeks no trace of him could be found. There was apparently no reason for his disappearance, and for a time the case baffled the police. Clue after clue was followed unsuccessfully. But the provincial authorities and the mounted police never gave up the search, and finally the body of the missing man was discovered buried in an unused well on a farm said to belong to Cook, the accused.

A medical examination adduced the fact that Crawford had been murdered, and the activities of the police were increased. There was, however, little to lead them to a solution of the mystery, the chief clue and that a faint one, being that the murdered man had on the day of his disappearance received a telegram which called him from his home to his office about ten o'clock at night. He responded to this call and this was the last seen of him alive.

The telegram clue has been followed assiduously for some weeks by Detective Nicholson, and the typewritten copy given to the operator at Tofteld, from where the message was sent, so closely resembled that of the work of a typewriter to which Cook had access, that suspicion was directed towards him, and this suspicion was strengthened by business dealings which might have furnished a motive for the crime.—Edmonton Bulletin.

Edmonton, Aug. 27.—T. G. Cook, of Wainwright, arrested on a charge of murdering W. B. Crawford, of the same town, about the first of May last, came up for his preliminary hearing yesterday afternoon at the R. N. W. M. P. barracks here, and was remanded to Wainwright, where the hearing will be continued on Monday next.

Calgary, Aug. 25.—With Calgary wheat quoted at the highest price ever known since the exchange opened, farmers are joyously looking to the garnering of a $30,000,000 crop in Alberta. Cutting is completed, and threshing returns coming into Calgary tend to show that the crop is of far better grade, while the quantity of yield has been under-estimated hitherto.

The embargo on the exportation of sugar from Kingston, Jamaica, imposed recently by the local authorities, has been removed except to countries hostile to Great Britain.

Billy Beasly had the misfortune to run a rusty tack into his foot while playing the other day, and is laid up with a very sore foot.

THE WAR

So far as can be gleaned from official announcements, the great battle line along the French frontier and in Belgium continues to be the scene of engagements between the opposing armies. The nature of these engagements and their results have not been made public, beyond admission by the French war office that in the north the French and British lines have been moved back a short distance, as well as the French right in the region of St. Die. The French troops on the offensive between Nancy and Vosges are said to be making headway.

From Antwerp comes the announcement that the Belgian troops have compelled the fourth German division, advancing southward, to retrace its steps. It is added in the official statement that the fourth Belgian division at Namur has fulfilled its task of arresting the German column, and allowing the Belgians to retire on the French lines.

Paris, Aug. 26.—According to Englishmen arriving from Mons, the British army was attacked six times by six different bodies of Germans and sent them all off. They estimate the English casualties at 2,000. The report that the allies made a headlong rush of the Germans near Mons.

Certain parts of the field, they declare, were covered with German dead, killed so high that the Turcos the French African troops, had difficulty in getting over the bodies to attack the Prussian guards.

A WARNING AGAINST FOOD PRICES

Ottawa, Aug. 24.—The following statement dealing with food prices was given out by Premier Borden this evening:

"While the action of the majority of dealers throughout the country during the present crisis has been characterized by the sense of fairness and justice, nevertheless several complaints have reached the government that arbitrary and burdensome increases in the cost of certain necessities of life have been made in some localities without any sufficient or substantial cause or reason. Under these circumstances it is desirable to have it generally known and understood that under the wide powers which have been conferred upon it by parliament, the government has the right to investigate and to deal promptly with any case or cases of unjustifiable increase or any oppressive or unfair to the laboring and artisan classes and generally those possessed of small fixed incomes is most strongly to be condemned and will demand the exercise by the government of all the powers at its command."

FURTHER COLONIZATION AND DEVELOPMENT BOOK

AIMS OF MOVEMENT RECENTLY STARTED TO DIVERT IMMIGRATION TO WEST

Effort Being Made to Attract a Greater Number of Desirable Settlers to Western Canada. Wide Opportunities for New Comer. Area of the West.

With the announcement recently of the scheme to form the Western Canada Colonization and Development League, whose object was to encourage activities for agricultural immigration, reports have been received at the provincial headquarters of the organization at North Battleford, that negotiations are being started by a number of individuals, apparently representatives of newspapers in the old country and the United States, the idea of forming local colonization schemes, which to all appearances is largely attempts on the part of private individuals or companies to secure an appropriation of money for advertising purposes, with the intent of obtaining the squandering of money on individual lines that give rise to the idea of forming such a concrete organization, to carry on a campaign for Western Canada. It was also realized that Western Canada had a much greater potential than the public of Great Britain and the United States than any one locality; this contention was also supported by the unanimous vote of the localities, and by the fact that the colonies are being started by a number of the Great Lakes.

When one considers the fact that for the government year of 1913 Canada received 207,000 immigrants, whereas Western Canada received only 150,000, it is evident that more than 50,000 of the immigrants went to the eastern provinces. It is also evident that the immigration to the west is increasing, and that the immigration to the west is increasing, and that the immigration to the west is increasing.

It does not seem to be the intention of the promoters of the movement to keep the province of Western Canada as follows: Ontario and the Dominion of Canada. It is also evident that the immigration to the west is increasing, and that the immigration to the west is increasing.

THE WHITE RABBIT.

Lord Pelham Had to Wait For His Chance to Sell.

Lord Pelham lived in a castle not very far from London, near the banks of the Thames. He had the habit of walking quite often, all alone, in the city. One day, in the year 1811, when his way in London, he saw a man coming towards him.

"My lord," said the man, "can't you buy a white rabbit from me?"

Lord Pelham shook his head and went his way without another word.
The unknown followed him and said, "My lord, you must buy my white rabbit."

"What shall I do with it?" replied the lord in surprise.

"I am certain, my lord, that you will buy my white rabbit," said the man, placing a revolver on my lord's knee.

"Well, I see I am in your power, and must buy the rabbit. How much do you want for it?"

"One hundred pounds sterling, my lord."

"One hundred pounds for a rabbit?"

"Not a shilling less! And I am sure you will give it to me."

"You shall have the money, but I don't carry so much cash with me."

"I will wait," said the man, "until you find your signature is sufficient. I know your banker."

"But I must have—"

"Paper, pen and ink. Here it is, my lord. I thought of everything."

Lord Pelham, who saw only too well his there was no escape from this man, sat down and wrote the check.
Then he wanted to continue his walk to the city, but the unknown stepped in his way with the revolver and said:

"You are mistaken, my lord, this is the road that leads to your castle.
You must now bring your purchase money. Good-bye, my lord. There is four ways and this is mine."

Lord Pelham did not consider it advisable to continue this discourse. He took the rabbit, returned to the castle, and never said anything about the price he had paid for it.

Two years later, 1813, shortly before his death, Lord Pelham took a walk through one of the liveliest streets of a suburb of London. His attention was drawn to a large, brilliantly lighted shop window. The owner stood behind the counter. Pelham thought he had seen that face before. He stepped into the shop, heard the man talk, and, after a few unimportant questions, retraced his steps and went home.

Next morning Lord Pelham, very plainly dressed, and with a basket on his arm, entered the meat market again and demanded to see the proprietor. He was shown into an adjoining room, where the man sat at his desk. As soon as they were alone, Lord Pelham said: "My dear sir!
Don't you want to buy a white rabbit from me?"

The man was terrified and started at Lord Pelham.

"I am certain you will buy my white rabbit this moment," said the lord.

"Oh, with the greatest pleasure," said the butcher who had recognized his former victim.

"What is the price of it?"

"What I had to pay you for it once —a hundred pounds."

"In cash or in a check?"

"I prefer cash."

The butcher counted out the money on the counter, Lord Pelham put it in his pocket, placed the basket with the rabbit on the counter and their bills were evenly settled.

To Build New Ocean Port.

It is reported from Ireland that a company with a guaranteed capital of $6,000,000 has been formed to construct a railroad from Collooney Junction, in Sligo, to Ballymolee, on the coast of Mayo, where the company proposes to build harbor works adapted for the loading of ocean steamships. The line will be 90 miles long and balladed for the heaviest traffic. At Collooney Junction the railroad will connect with the Great Southern and Western and with the Midland Great Western, so that passengers can be debarbed easily and quickly to all parts of Ireland, as well as Scotland and England. It is estimated that a savings of 24 hours will be made in the transmission of transatlantic mail and passengers to and from London.

SLEEPING IN CHURCH.

It Used to Be Rudely Interrupted in Olden Times in England.

One John Rudge is on record as having been requested to the parish of Try-all, in Shropshire, England, 20 shillings a year to be paid to a "poor man" employed to go about the church in summer to keep people awake.

At another English church, that of Acton, in Cheshire, it was the practice during the middle of the last century for one of the churchwardens to proceed through the church during service with a huge wand in his hand wherewith if any one of the congregation were observed to be asleep he was instantly awakened by a tap on the head.
In Warwickshire a similar custom prevailed. A warden bearing a stout wand shaped like a bay fork at the end stopped suddenly up and down the aisle and the aisle, and whenever he saw an individual asleep he touched him so effectively that the sleep was broken, this being sometimes accompanied by the application of the fork to the nose of the sleeper.

A more playful method obtained in another church. The warden went about during service carrying a long staff, to one end of which was attached a force of the warden to the other end. With the former he gently tickled the faces of the women sleepers, while with the latter he bestowed a sharp rap on the heads of male offenders.—Exchange.

ORIENTALS APT PUPILS.

It Doesn't Take Them Long to Get the Swing of Our Ways.

About the time the Japanese or Singapore student at Harvard has come to know his way about the campus he has forgotten to predict "honorable" to the names of professors, he remembers only dimly that he used to exclaim to his elders, and he wears a cap with as careless grace and comfort as any other freshman.

If six weeks will make such transformation in the oriental six months will so change him that even his father would have difficulty in recognizing him at first glance. And he can say, "You get me. You get me. You get me."

A tutor ever in Cambridge and some oriental students in charge as soon as they arrive at the university and instruct them in the ways and means of acquiring a working knowledge of English literature.

Whether the youngsters had any education in the English language or not before they left home.

The Chinese or the Japanese student, the tutor says, is invariably quick, determined and eager to learn. Also, according to this tutor, he understands a lot of oriental things.—Boston Herald.

How to Sell Water.

To sell water would seem to be a very simple thing, and yet the late Charles Delmonico used to say that very few people knew how to sell it.

"The secret is," he said, "in putting good fresh water into a clean kettle and letting it boil."

And he was right. For water is the best of all things, and the best way to sell it is to let it boil.

And he was right. For water is the

Meinself--Und Gott

This seems to be a rather opportune time to re-impose A. M. R. Gordon's celebrated skit "Hoch der Kaiser," which, since its first publication in the Montreal Herald in October, 1897, has on occasion added to the galaxy of nations and made trouble for individuals. Gordon, the writer, was a journalistic soldier of fortune—a highly educated Scot, who, after an earlier professional career in Scotland, became a wanderer on the face of the earth. At one time he edited a newspaper in Medicine Hat. Gordon died in Montreal about 15 years ago. This is the poem:

Der Kaiser of the Fatherland
Und Gott on high all things command.

We two—ach! Don't you understand?
Meinself--und Gott.

He reigns in Heaven, and always shall,
Und mein own Empire don't you stand!

BOTH TAKES THE TROPHY

In Three Hard Fought Games, Win Two. First Two Games Shut-Outs Third Game A Swat-Fest. One Whallop For The Circuit

Mirror again was called upon to defend the famous "Brewery Trophy" when both the challenging teams played Mirror in a double-header on the latter ground on Thursday afternoon before a crowd of 300 baseball fans. The first game called at two p.m. proved one of the most exciting games ever played here the home team winning 2-0.

Dickenson on the mound for the local pitched a tight ball, being also effective in the pinch. Five hits being gathered off his delivery, he also getting twelve strike-outs to his record. Pitman on the mound for the challengers also pitched good ball, he also getting twelve strike-outs while the local managed to touch him up for eight hits, and neither pitcher allowing scores until the eighth innings, when Mirror managed to get two across, both being at the plate by sensational slides by Murray and Easterman.

Easterman on third played a star game for the local getting four hits in four times up, one being for two bags, he making one run and accepted four chances which he handled perfectly, making also double play unassisted, Murray on short played a good game accepting four chances besides making a double play unassisted and figuring in the run column.

The score is as follows:

The second game of the series was called at five o'clock sharp, and a good exhibition of ball was somewhat marred by a light shower of rain throughout the game. Thielen on the mound for the local and Brown for the opposing team pitched good ball, but Botha won the contest by the score of 4-0. Brown had the locals outing out of his hand, only one hit being registered off his south-paw deliveries while he got nineteen strike-outs to his credit. Thielen getting eight with six hits made off his delivery. Pitman playing third for Botha in this game made a new kind of a hit getting one off the ground, and scored two of the visitors runs, this being one of the six hits that Botha seemed in the habit of pulling off which kept the Mirror infield guessing.

And in the third game Mirror led the cup. Good by Mr. Brewery Trophy, we held you for a month. After a win each, the contestants went into battle this (Friday) afternoon with the home team the favorite, in fact no money was to be had.

This is how Easterman and R. Cundall blamed themselves for striking out so often besides some other players.

At the end of the first innings Mirror had a lead of three runs, the local team taking kindly to Pitman's offerings. After the first Brown went in and although Mirror collected fifteen hits they were kept well scattered. In the eighth Mirror tallied three. Botha bunched his hits and this with several costly errors gave them a substantial lead that was impossible to overcome. Botha also pulled off three double plays.

Taken altogether they were three good games; the best that have ever been played in Mirror.
